
BRITISH ASSOCIATION OF HOLISTIC NUTRITION AND MEDICINE

Registered in London

Holistic science in veterinary medicine, animal husbandry and management

General enquiries:

Tel: 0800 8488049 (local rate)

Email – secretary@bahnm.org.uk

General Information:

Information can be provided on a range of subjects relating to integrated methods of animal health. This is based on –

- In - house research
- Clinical experience of holistic veterinary surgeons
- Research in the peer reviewed academic literature

Technical help: – tech.help@bahnm.org.uk

BAHNM provides free technical advice relating to the prevention and management of chronic ailments. Advice is given on the understanding that it should not be interpreted as being on the basis of a diagnosis of disease, which cannot be done unless the animal is also properly examined.

Generally the principles of holistic nutrition and medicine can be easily and safely embraced, but as the circumstances in which they are applied are obviously outside the control of the BAHNM, the ultimate responsibility for the use of any information provided must rest with the animal owner.

If an animal is in pain or distress and a local veterinary surgeon practicing holistic medicine cannot be consulted, the services of a conventional veterinary surgeon must be sought. Enthusiasm for holistic methods should not be allowed to contribute to poor animal welfare.